FEARING THIEF, KILLS HIS FRIEND

G. W. Clingman Deeply Grieved Over
Accidental Shooting of George
Perry, 25, Sunday.

HE IS READY TO GIVE BOND

Prosecutor Stevens Will Probably
Not File Charge Until Coroner's
Verdict is Returned.

STATEMENT OF CLINGMAN

Says he Was Awakened by Wife and Shot Through Window With no
Intention of Hitting Anyone.

Awakened by his wife who believed someone was attempting to either rob the house or steal their chickens, George W. Clingman, living on the Sarah Mull farm, two miles northeast of Manilla, arose quickly, secured his .22 calibre rifle and fired three shots in the direction of the lane leading from the house to the road. One of the bullets entered the head of George Perry, 25, of Manilla, two inches back of the left ear, resulting in death two hours later. The shooting occurred shortly after midnight Saturday.

Clingman, following the shooting, went back to bed and did not know he had even hit anyone until about four o'clock Sunday morning when Coroner Green, Sheriff Cavitt and Deputy Sullivan went to his home to get his statement and arrest him. Even while making his statement he did not know Perry was dead and, in fact, did not know whom he had hit.

It was while putting up his horse preparatory to going with the officers that he inquired of Lon Mull the condition of his victim and was told that he was dead. Clingman was almost overcome. He and Perry were close personal friends and had often visited together. Clingman was greatly affected when he realized that he had killed his friend. Clingman told a straightforward story to the officers and repeated the story in his testimony to the coroner.

The case is one of the most peculiar ever brought to the attention of the local officers. A crowd of five Manilla men, including George Perry, his father, Robert Perry and brother, Clayton, and John Coers and Burn Purcell had been fishing in Blue River as had been their custom for some time past. In going to the river they passed through the lane leading to the Clingman home and on out through the barn lot down to the river. They were returning from the fishing trip when the tragedy occurred.

Mr. and Mrs. Clingman had lived on the Mull farm only since last Thursday and the fact that the fishermen were not aware of this led them to take the usual course in going to and from the river. Clingman and wife had been in Manilla earlier in the evening shopping, and after spending some time with his father, Rolla Clingman, returned home, arriving there about ten o'clock.

Clingman in his statement to the coroner said that they retired shortly after and some time later he was awakened by his wife, who believed someone was trying to rob them. Mrs. Clingman, according to the statement, said she saw a rig out in the lane. Clingman did not pay much attention to his wife until she called some time later. This time the second buggy was going down the lane. Clingman says that he then became frightened and grabbing his rifle fired three shots through the open window of their bed room, although he could not see the rig.

Clingman says he heard no cries, and as he did not intend to shoot anyone but merely wished to frighten anyone trying to take their chickens, he again went back to bed. Then, according to his story, the next thing to happen was his arrest.

George Perry and his brother, Clayton, and Purcell were in the second rig and the one that Clingman fired upon. The bullet went through the buggy top and entered on the left side of the head, two inches below the ear. When it was seen that young Perry had been hit, he was rushed to his home as quickly as possible where he was given medical attention. He was conscious part of the time and told his relatives that he believed he was going to die. Young Perry died without knowing that one of his best friends fired the fatal shot. The rifle ball entered his skull and buried itself in the base of his brain.

The other side of the case presents just as interesting a story. The five men seeing the buggy in the barn yard of the Clingman home and not knowing that anyone had moved in thought that perhaps someone was robbing the summer home of Mrs. Mull. No one had lived in this house on the Mull farm for a period of three months. In fact Clingman had not completely furnished the house. It is pointed out that had the fishermen known someone was living in the house they would have made themselves known or else would have used different tactics in going down the lane.

Clingman in his statement to the coroner declared that he did not intend to kill anyone and believed that he was shooting in the air. Coroner Green has not yet completed his investigation, having several other witnesses to examine. His verdict will probably show that Perry died from a rifle wound and that the shot was fired by Clingman. It is not believed that his verdict will attempt to place the blame or go into the merits of the case or recommend anything pertaining to charges against Clingman. Testimony of Robert Perry, father of the dead man, will not be taken until after the funeral because of his condition.

It is not believed that any charge will be filed by Prosecutor Stevens until the verdict of the coroner has been filed. Clingman made arrangements to give bond, but the bond could not be fixed in the absence of a charge. He does not seem anxious to be released and is contented to let things take their natural course.

As far as is known Clingman has not been in any trouble before. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Rolla Clingman of near Homer, both of whom are well known. Rolla Clingman was convicted of killing his father-in-law, Stewart Miller, about seven years ago and served a few years in prison.

Perry, the victim, formerly lived south of the city, but for the past several years had been employed by the Pennsylvania railway in Manilla. He had been married several years, and is survived by his widow in addition to his parents and brother. The funeral services will be conducted Tuesday morning at ten o'clock at the late residence and burial will take place in East Hill cemetery.

CHARGED WITH PROVOKE

Addie Warfield was arrested this morning on a provoke charge filed by Mrs. Dora Short. She entered a plea of not guilty and the trial was set for Thursday night at 7:30 o'clock. Mrs. Short pleaded guilty to a similar charge last week filed by Mrs. Warfield and now comes back and files the affidavit against her accuser.

EXCESSIVE HEAT BROKEN BY RAIN

Severe Electrical Storm Late Today
Promises to Usher in Cooler
Weather.

MERCURY DROP PREDICTED

Humidity in Atmosphere Makes Sunday and Monday Apparently Hottest Days Yet.

Shivers! There's Cold Wave Coming!

(By United Press.)
Chicago, July 31.—Cooler weather was in sight for the middle west today after a day of record-breaking heat. A cold wave, according to the weather bureau, will hit this section tonight. Today, it was predicted, will be cooler than yesterday, but will still be hot.

Death's toll in Chicago yesterday from the heat was 117. This makes a total of 264 deaths in Chicago in the past four days as a result of the heat.

Rain late this afternoon threatened to give relief from the excessive heat. Summer continued on the job over Sunday and was still here today. The temperature this afternoon shortly before the rain was 97 degrees in the business district. The temperature Sunday kept up the record of the past week.

Many people complained of the heat last night, declaring that it was the warmest night of the present hot spell. There was a nice breeze most of the day Sunday, but as soon as the sun went down it stopped and the humidity was especially noticeable.

A severe electrical storm accompanied the rain this afternoon but at a late hour no damage had been reported.

BATHING BEACH NOT CONDEMNED

Health Authorities Take no Action
but Say There is Danger
Staying in Water too Long

NO TRUTH IN TYPHOID RUMOR

Rumors that the swimming hole had been condemned by the health officials are unfounded. The bathing beach is on the farm of Dr. Frank Green. Dr. W. C. Smith, county health commissioner stated today that he would make no effort to stop swimming there. He stated that in his opinion there was no danger from the water but advised against staying in too long at a time.

Yesterday and today there were rumors that several cases of typhoid fever had been traced to the bathing beach but this is not true. One young man suffered a slight attack of pneumonia in one lung as a result of staying in the water too long and then exposing himself after coming out. According to Dr. Smith the water is fit to bathe in and those who have been visiting the place need have no fear from this source.

Petrograd, July 31.—After fierce fighting around Brody the Russian forces have thrust their way forward again, this time taking ground from the Teutons up to the rivers Graberki and Seret.

TO TOUR COUNTY FOR CHAUTAUQUA

Flying Squadrons Will Visit all
Towns Wednesday and Friday
Nights Advertising

TO GIVE MUSICAL PROGRAMS

Persons Forgetting Season Tickets
Must Pay Single Admission—
Can Get it Back

One week from today the annual Rush county chautauqua will be in full swing. The assembly will open next Sunday, the sixth, and will continue for eight days, closing on Sunday, the thirteenth.

The flying squadron of automobiles is to be utilized again this year in advertising the chautauqua in the county. On Wednesday and Friday nights of this week automobile loads of singers and entertainers and speakers will travel to all of the towns in the county and urge people to visit this year's assembly.

There will be two squadrons each evening. On Wednesday night one group of machines will leave here and make stops at Arlington, Cartage and Mays in the order named. The other group will go to Glenwood, Falmouth and Raleigh and join the other party at Mays and return home together.

On Friday night the first squadron will go to New Salem, Andersonville and Milroy. The other crowd will visit Homer and Manilla and join the others at Milroy.

With each squadron on both nights will be eight girls who will give a brief musical program at each stop. There will also be cornet and violin solos and probably other instrumental numbers arranged. There will be a spokesman for each crowd who will outline the program at the chautauqua and extoll the qualities of the entertainers and lecturers.

The flying squadrons will leave the Main Street Christian church each evening at six-thirty o'clock. Those who can go and can furnish machines are asked to notify Carl Webb or Chauncey Duncan.

It was announced today that the same policy will be followed this year as was started last year regarding patrons of the chautauqua who forget their season tickets.

No matter whether they are known to the gate keeper, each person who comes to the gate without their season ticket will have to pay the single admission price to get in. They will be given a receipt to show that they paid the single admission and upon presentation of their season ticket the money will be refunded.

The board of directors decided upon this plan so as to be fair to all. Up to last year the gate keepers often admitted people who forgot their season tickets when they were known to the gate keepers. But not infrequently a person unknown to the gate keepers forgets his or her season ticket and it was not considered fair to allow one the privilege of entering without a ticket if not all.

EXPLOSION WILL RESULT IN PROBE

Investigation of Shipment End of Munition Promised After Terrible New York Loss

LOSS FROM 20 TO 50 MILLION

Most Amazing Phase is Fact That Death List Will Not Exceed
Ten or Fifteen

(By United Press.)
New York, July 31.—Comprehensive investigation will be made into the shipment end of the munitions business of the country by state and federal authorities as a direct result of the monstrous explosion that occurred at the Black Tom munition terminal Sunday.

Hints of such an investigation came today when Prosecuting Attorney Hudsteth at the preliminary hearing of two men arrested on the charges of manslaughter in connection with the resultant death, declared every railroad terminating in New Jersey has been a flagrant violator of statutes regulating storage of high explosives.

Agents from the department of justice and interstate commerce commission spent nearly all day on the scene. On their report will depend whether the commission will go more fully into the case. This phase, however, will not deter state and busy city officials in their investigation.

Most amazing of all the startling features of this greatest explosion on record is the growing belief this afternoon that the death list will not exceed ten or fifteen at the outside. As the flames died out this afternoon and searchers prepared to go through the ruins of the Lehigh Valley docks, only 4 persons were known to have died.

They were Leyden Conrad, the Lehigh Valley's chief of police; Arthur Tossen, baby, shocked to death, and two unidentified men. Twenty-three men are reported missing. Estimates of the property loss range from $20,000,000 to $50,000,000.

CAUSE BELIEVED TO BE ACCIDENTAL

Unless Federal Agents Find it Otherwise
New York Explosion Will
Not be Investigated.

TO DETERMINE ITS CAUSE

(By United Press.)
Washington, July 31.—Nothing to indicate other than accidental cause for the gigantic explosion of yesterday morning in New York harbor has been found by federal agents. The justice department's bureau of investigation stated today this in the report sent in by agents of the bureau at work on the case. Unless members of the New York staff of the bureau find something to indicate the wrecking of the stores of allies explosives was due to outside interference, the bureau will not take any further steps.

El Paso, Texas, July 31.—Three troopers of the Eighth United States cavalry were killed in a running fight with Mexican bandits near Ft. Stockton, early today, according to reports here. She detachments of American cavalry killed five of the Mexicans. None of the dead has been identified.

The effects of the European war on the five foremost nations involved are described in detail today in the third of a series of articles by United Press staff correspondents in the war capitals. Tomorrow's series will tell something of the public sentiment.

War's Effects in England
BY ED. L. KEEN
(By United Press.)

London, July 10 (By Mail)—The classes are paying for this war; the masses are profiting by it.

This statement applies, of course, not only when the subject is considered from the purely financial angle. It would be a hopeless task to measure the toll of blood and tears that both paid. British aristocracy and British proletariat have both contributed generously to their young manhood, and doubtless on this second anniversary of the war there are proportionately as many broken homes among the wage-earners as among the nobility. The war so far has made in Great Britain 39,042 widows and deprived 83,389 children of their fathers. The Jutland naval battle alone added 1,550 widows to the roll.

In the material things of life never in England's history have the rich been poorer, or the poor richer than today. Under the new sliding scale of income duties, devised to help the nation's war bill of twenty-five million dollars a day, the capitalist whose yearly income is $100,000 turns nearly forty per cent of it into the Treasury, whereas the thousand dollar wage-earner is left off with six per cent. Before the war the $100,000 man was making perhaps twice as much; while the present thousand dollar laborer was earning only $500 or $600.

With the exception of those directly interested in the munitions industry, the revenues of England's wealthiest families generally have been materially impaired, even before McKenna's tax collector comes round. The war reduced their rentals and business; also very patriotically they have transferred large well-paying investments into smaller-paying government securities.

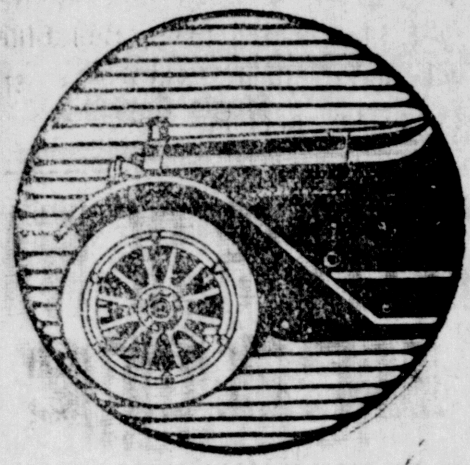

On the other hand, the manual laborer and his family are prospering as they never could have hoped to in peace time, even though he has gone to the war; for in that event the chances are that his wife and his daughters and his under-age sons are working in munitions factories, or elsewhere at wages he himself would have been glad to get in other days.

The war has temporarily remedied two of England's greatest social evils, unemployment and pauperism. The other evening the writer strolling down Fleet Street and the Strand and returning to the United Press office by way of the Embankment, encountered only two beggars—both old men and blind. Two years ago he would have been accosted by fifty or more most of them able-bodied men eager to work.

A good deal has been said about the increased cost of living here as a result of the war. Recent figures from the "Board of Trade Gazette" place the average advance in the

NEWS REPORTS TELL THE STORY

Belie Statements Made by Democratic Press That Progressive Party
is Alive in Indiana

ONLY 175 DELEGATES THERE

Balconies Were Deserted, Says One
Paper at Convention and Spectators Were Scarce.

Indianapolis, Ind., July 21.—As
was to have been expected the Democratic press of Indiana, sorely distressed over the way the tide is running towards Republicanism, has seized on the fact that Ed Lee's party nominated a state ticket the other day and is proceeding to "blow it up" with the notion to deluding some into thinking that such action really amounted to something. The Democratic papers are saying much about
the enthusiasm and determination of Lee's convention and endeavoring heroically to create the opinion that the "convention" was remarkable in its size and character. It was.

Let the Indianapolis newspapers in
their news report of the convention,
tell the story. Said The Star:
"It was a small convention, possibly smaller than some of the enthusiastic leaders expected. There were only 175 delegates and proxy holders in the seats, although the allotment of the convention was 544 delegates. There were, at times, as many as 100 spectators in the rear
seats and in the balcony. The balcony visitors thinned out after noon,
and at the conclusion of the day's work there were not more than a dozen persons there. A band of twenty-four members occupied seats
in the balcony."

The Daily Times, in its report of the convention said, "The balconies
were deserted."

"Probably 250 persons were in the hall when the meeting opened," said
the news. "They were scattered among the various sections assigned to the districts. D. N. Foster of Ft.
Wayne, who was expelled from membership on the credentials committee
and suffered a cancellation of his credentials as a delegate, was the only man in the Twelfth district section."

By actual count there were 97 delegates present—nothing like the convention showing of the Socialist,
Prohibitionists or minor parties.

John F. Lawrence of Peru, member of the Progressive state committee from the Eleventh district, was one of the few participants opposed to Lee's plan who was permitted to say anything in the convention. Before the Lee band could howl him
down Mr. Lawrence said:

"The majority of the delegates didn't think it was necessary to come. They know the party is dead,
and that a convention is farcical.
This view prevails, not only among
the delegates, but among the rank and file of the men who made the great Progressive party of 1912 and 1914 in Indiana."

PARTIES AGREE TO PASSAGE OF LAW

Workmen's Compensation For Government Employees Will be Carried Out as Suggested.

URGED BY LABOR FEDERATION

(By United Press.)

Washington, July 31.—Passage of a Workmen's compensation act for government employees, on lines suggested by the American Federation of Labor, today was agreed on by Democratic and Republican leaders.

For six years it has gone through
all the stages of congressional action except final passage. Something always stopped it there. This year the federation demanded of both conventions the passage of the bill before congress adjourned to take up the Fall campaign, on pain
of the federation's doing a little campaigning itself.

The bill provides, in case of:
Death—thirty-five per cent to widow or widower, until their death or remarriage, with 10 per cent, additional for each dependent child.

Total disability—Two thirds of wages, in no case to be less than $33.33 monthly.

Partial Disability—Two thirds of the difference between wages earned before and after injury. Refusal of a partially disabled man to do what work he can do makes him ineligible
to any payment.

Medical care for a reasonable time after an injury is suffered in government service is provided; and
in case of death $100 for funeral expenses is allowed.

Intoxication or wilful carelessness on duty makes a federal employe ineligible to benefits under the act.

It will be shown at the Gem theatre today and is a feature you can ill afford to miss. What happens when a woman's uncontrollable jealousy leads to a near-tragedy and causes her to forfeit her husband's love, is the subject of this play, declared by some to be the most dramatic of Clyde Fitch's great creations. Tomorrow matinee, and night the next number of "Peg o' the Ring," which features Francis Ford and Grace Cunard will be shown.

MAY BE AGENCY FOR RECRUITING

Postmaster is Allowed to Procure Men for Army, According to New Act by Congress

LIMITED TO THREE CLASSES

Postmaster Hunt Will Receive $5 For Each Recruit if President so Decees

Postmaster G. P. Hunt may have a chance to "pick up a little loose change," if President Wilson so decrees, because by an act of congress approved June 3, 1916, postmasters of the second, third and fourth classes may be used in procuring enlistments for the army, at the discretion and direction of the president of the United States.

For each enlistment, the act provides, the postmaster shall receive five dollars. The postmaster general A. S. Barleson, Adjutant General H. P. McCain and Major General H. L. Scott, chief of staff, have signed an order which says that postmasters of the classes mentioned will, without neglecting their official duties, render the officers of the army all the assistance possible in their efforts to obtain recruits. The plan will not be effective until an official order is sent out decreeing that it shall be. The following extraets are from the measure:

"Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled:

"Sec. 27. And provided further, that the President is authorized in his discretion to utilize the services of the postmasters of the second, third, and fourth class in procuring the enlistment of recruits for the army, and for each recruit accepted for enlistment in the army the postmaster procuring his enlistment shall receive the sum of $5.

"Recruiting officers in charge of recruiting stations will give a copy of this circular to each postmaster of the second, third and fourth classes in the recruiting district of which the officer has charge. The postmasters will procure as many desirable applicants for enlistments as possible in the particular localities in which the postmasters reside, and report the names of such desirable applicants to the recruiting officer from whom the bulletin was received. The recruiting officer will either go himself or send a competent member of his recruiting party to the particular postoffice for the purpose of examining the applicants procured by the postmaster. The recruiting officer or the member of his recruiting party so sent will forward the applicants deemed acceptable by him either to the recruiting station or to the proper recruit depot, whichever is deemed most expedient, considering economy of transportation, which will be provided the applicant in the usual way.

"The recruiting officers will also advise the respective postmasters monthly of the number of recruits procured by such postmasters as were enlisted, and will certify to the correctness of the voucher presented by such postmasters for procuring the enlistment of recruits."

A New Back for an Old One—How a
Rushville Resident Made a
Bad Back Strong

The back aches at times with a dull indescribable feeling, making you weary and restless; piercing pains shoot across the region of the kidneys, and again the loins are so lame that to stoop is agony. No use to rub or apply a plaster to the back if the kidneys are weak. You cannot reach the cause. Follow the example of this Rushville citizen.

Charley Walker, 1023 N. Arthur St., Rushville, says: "I work where a lot of turpentine is used and it keeps my kidneys out of order more or less all the time. My back gives me the most trouble. It aches and is lame and stiff. The kidney secretions are too frequent, in passage and highly colored. Not long ago, I decided to try Doan's Kidney Pills and got a box at Lytle's Drug Store. They surely helped me and considerably relieved the trouble. I have a lot of faith in Doan's Kidney Pills and expect to continue their use."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Walker had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.—(Adv.)

price of food-stuffs in the last two years at 59 per cent, including the increased duties on tea and sugar as compared with an estimated similar increase in Germany of 120 per cent. This steadily diminishing purchasing power of the pound sterling has been more than compensated by the higher wages and increased opportunities for steady employment for men and women.

A visit to one of London's great department stores any afternoon would convince even a casual investigator that the standard of living among the working classes has improved. The smaller customers that pay cash have increased in numbers, especially in the last year; former big credit accounts have dwindled. Particularly in munition-making districts have tradesmen been profiting. Wage earning families who previously had scarcely enough to keep the wolf at bay now buy expensive wearing apparel, jewelry, etc., in such quantities that the National War Savings Committee is frantically flooding the country with posters and pamphlets, and independent organizations are sending out lecturers beseeching the people to "work hard, spend little and save much" for post war days.

There are sealaws in England today just as there are in Germany; grasping employers, extortionate middlemen, unscrupulous retailers, taking personal advantage of this abnormal situation. Somewhere between the farmer and the housewife the price of milk jumps from six cents to twelve cents a quart. In the matter of bacon, in the first five months of 1916, England imported nearly a million and a half hundred-weight more than in the corresponding period of 1915; yet the government returns show an increase in price to the consumer of 33 per cent, a total increase since the war began of more than 50 per cent. The government is making a real effort to locate the particular culprits.

Nearly two million English women are filling the places in industrial life vacated by their husbands, fathers, sons and brothers. From driving street cars to making shells, switching railroad trains to plowing fields, there is scarcely an avenue of labor in Great Britain not subject to the feminine invasion. Most of them are making men's wages and some of them wearing men's clothes. The London underground railways and omnibus systems are employing 1,832 women and girls. There are 1,200 women street-car conductors in Glasgow. The Great Central Railway has filled the places of 1,756 of its 5,928 men with women. Fifty thousand women have registered with the Board of Agriculture to get out this year's crops.

Suffragettes who used to smash windows are washing them. Instead of shying brickbats at cabinet ministers or defacing golf links, they are nursing soldiers or painting ships. Cultured women who never before turned their hands to labor are milking cows, mowing hay, or operating wireless keys.

When the war is over and the general adjustment comes, will these women who for a time have tasted the sweets of independence be satisfied to return to the plainer fare of domesticity?

The question is almost as big as the biggest social problem England is to face after the war—what to do with her soldiers.

War's Effects in Germany

BY CARL W. ACKERMAN

Berlin, July 3 (By Mail)—As the second year of the war closes, Germany's food problem is about solved. Government economists are turning their faces to the future.

During the last few months the food has been bad. The people have lived through on substitutes. The military campaign has not been materially affected by the change in food conditions at home. There have no troubles so great as the Irish revolution. Food dictator von Batocki took the mask from the world's eyes regarding the food situation. Today he is well on the way to a solution of the problem.

The biggest economic question in Germany is not food, but: "What shall Germany do to meet the preparations of the Allies to declare an economic boycott of Germany and her allies after the war?" Germany has chosen for the solution of this problem Secretary of the Interior,

Dr. Karl Helfferich.

Concerning the relationship of the submarine campaign and the "American Crisis" to the economic situation here, the German people believe their submarine war against merchant ships was a retaliation, a defensive measure, against the English blockade which they say changed international law so that food for non-combatants could be declared contraband.

The view of the German people, as it is impressed upon a correspondent in the last 12 months is this: The submarine war was instituted to break the illegal blockade. Because England did not respect the interests of the unwarring people of Germany, Germany felt she did not need to respect the interests of her enemy. President Wilson, however, undertook to speak for the neutrals against the submarine warfare but so far he has taken no drastic steps against the English blockade.

President Batocki recently told me he lifted the veil from the food situation here to impress on America that if it was fair respecting its relations to the belligerents it would do something to enforce international law as it was before the war respecting food stuffs. Food for non-combatants was not contraband until the English Order in Council was made. Since then, practically no food stuff has come from America to Germany.

The German people have lived through a hard Summer so far as food is concerned. Vegetables and fruit have been plentiful but meat, butter and other fats have been scarce. So at times have been potatoes, rice and beans. The market has been flooded with substitutes. It is undoubtedly true that if the food situation had changed suddenly, from the plenty of last Summer to the scarcity of this Summer, the people could not have adjusted themselves to it. But the change has been gradual. At first one did without meat two days a week, then the number of times increased to four or five. Finally there were meatless weeks but the people ate, complained or laughed and existed from day to day.

An American woman who has lived in Germany several years said she would see a sign in a shop window reading "Butter." She would walk up closer and underneath, in small letters, was the statement that it was "sold out," or else it was an advertisement of a butter substitute made of fats from the roots of plants. There has been a substitute for everything. When there were no more fats to fry with, new frying pans were invented to fry meat without fat.

The scarcity of food caused many abuses and adulterations. A baker in Hamburg was arrested for making bread of sawdust. So was a Berlin merchant arrested for adding 67% of water to butter. Abuses have been watched for and stopped. Prices have been very high. The socialists have complained of them in the Reichstag with some success.

The first big difficulty was the laws of small German states forbidding the export of food. Bavaria has much more food than Prussia. The task of Batocki was to abolish these regulations.

Helfferich, who during the next 20 years will be one of Germany's leading figures has the new task of regulating and developing Germany's industries. Helfferich has had a meteoric career though still in his early forties. Two years he lectured in the University of Berlin, two years more he managed the Anatolian railway, for two years was the president of the Deutsche Bank, then for two years Secretary of the Treasury. Now for two years, so a member of the Reichstag remarked to me one day he will be Secretary of the Interior and then, he added, "he may be the next Chancellor, but not during the war."

Helfferich's immediate job is to prepare for Germany's business in peace time. He is to watch what the Allies do and prepare Germany's industries. Those who know Helfferich believe he will be successful.

There are many plans but the one furthest developed is to have the government import all raw materials, her greatest need, after the war. Thereby the lowest prices can be secured in foreign lands and the products can be sold at a margin in Germany. This margin can be used to pay the debts of the war and so keep down the ever heavy taxes.

It is impossible for anyone to report accurately what the situation is. One can only picture what one sees

FOUR DOCTORS DISAGREED

Pains Disappeared After Use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Wilmington, Del.—"I was suffering from a terrible backache and pains in my side, with bearing down pains and was very nervous. I was always tired, always drowsy, never could get enough sleep and could not eat. I had four doctors and each told me something different. I read of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and decided to try it. I got good results and I now feel better than I have felt for years and I am gaining in weight. I can gladly recommend it to all women."—Mrs. GEORGE W. SEBOLD, 1611 West 4th Street, Wilmington, Del.

Backache and bearing down pains are danger signals which every woman should heed. Remove the cause of these aches and pains by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, that good old root and herb medicine. Thousands of women have testified to its virtues. For forty years it has been making women strong, curing backache, nervousness, ulceration and inflammation, weakness, displacements, irregularity and periodic pain.

TWO GIRLS FAIL TO KEEP PROMISE

Hannah Caster and Helen Crawford
Are Sent to Home of Good Shepherd in Indianapolis

IN JUVENILE COURT BEFORE

Hannah Caster and Helen Crawford were sent to the Home of the Good Shepherd in Indianapolis this morning by Judge Sparks, who held a session of juvenile court in order to hear the complaints against the two girls. Both have been in juvenile court before and were released pending their good behavior.

According to reports coming to the court officials, the two girls have failed to live up to their agreement with the court and Judge Sparks told them that he was sending them away for their own good. The Crawford girl's father, Otis Crawford, appeared in court against her and told of her running away from home recently.

Judge Sparks told them that he believed they needed a little discipline and was of the opinion that staying here would result badly for both. Both girls "took the sentence to heart" and cried as they were being taken from the court house. They will be taken to Indianapolis tomorrow.

FOREST FIRE COSTS THE LIVES OF 184

Greatest Conflagration Northern Ontario Ever Experienced Causes $2,000,000 Loss.

DRIVEN BY A STRONG GALE

(By United Press.) Norgh Bay, Ont., July 31.—One hundred and eighty-four lives have so far been lost in the greatest forest fire Northern Ontario has ever experienced. More than $2,000,000 property damage was done, it is estimated.

The fire district formed a strip of territory like a letter J.

The fire broke out at four o'clock Saturday afternoon and was reported simultaneously at several points forming a semi-circle from Bourke's to Hearst, over a 100-mile frontage.

Driven by a twenty-mile an hour wind from the south, the flames rolled over the countryside like a thunderstorm, coming up ahead of a hurricane and with everything dry there was never a chance for people to save anything.

NEVER KILLED MOSQUITO BORED PEOPLE TO DEATH.

New York, July 31.—Sam-U-L Donniss, who never so much as killed a mosquito because he doesn't believe in the slaughter of animals, but who is said to have bored dozens of civilians to death with his arguments, entered the workhouse here for a two year visit today because he hailed so many strange persons on Broadway to tell them about himself.

Samuel developed a habit of stopping in front of butcher shops to harangue buyers of meat. He scolded small sized strangers for wearing slaughtered shoe leather. He yowled at women with birds on their hats, and when he was sentenced one reporter said he raged and stomped his rubber clad feet so much it was apparent that any hornet wandering into his cell will take its life in its stinger.

during one's travels. One sees no unemployed, except perhaps among some women. All factories are running full time, for eighty per cent of Germany's industries are making war materials. Great municipal improvements are under way such as an extension of the underground railroad in Berlin and the construction of a new dock on the banks of the Spree. There are only a few horses and automobiles but much activity everywhere. Shops are crowded with buyers and the people comfortably and well dressed. There are no striking evidences of want because in peace time Germany was about the only European nation which has solved the problem of poverty.

War's Effects in France

By HENRY WOOD
(U. P. Staff Correspondent.)

Paris, July 3. (By Mail)—Thanks largely to the historical "wollen sock bank" of the thrifty French, France today is financially and economically supporting the war without any serious strain on her national life while new elements the war has injected into industrial and economic life assure France industrial expansion without precedent when peace comes.

At the close of the war in 1870, when Germany imposed an indemnity of one billion dollars, it was the same "wollen sock bank" that saved France. To date, the war has cost France some $8,000,000,000, 73% for military expense.

To meet this gigantic financial burden, the people have loaned the government nearly $3,000,000,000. They have also paid nearly $1,500,000,000 in war taxes, making a total of $4,500,000, over half the cost of the war to date.

The French government has left with its people all the ready capital necessary for the full redemption of her industrial, commercial and agricultural activities the moment war ends.

By not imposing on her people the financial burdens of the war faster than their earning capacity will bear, France is able financially to continue the war now costing her over $18,000,000 a day, for an indefinite period, crippling either her financial, economic or industrial life.

The influx of female labor into all branches of French industrial life since the war began, the suppression of absinthe and the restriction generally of alcoholic consumption, and above all the great lesson of industrial efficiency and maximum production which the war has taught France, hold out for her roseate prospects of the future that promise to compensate the loss in everything but human life the war has entailed on her.

Of the three great elements mentioned above that in two years have revolutionized French industrial life, the greatest perhaps is industrial efficiency and maximum production which the war has taught France, hold out for her roseate prospects of the future that promise to compensate the loss in everything but human life the war has entailed on her.

Of the three great elements mentioned above that in two short years have revolutionized French industrial life, the greatest perhaps is industrial efficiency and maximum productivity. Previous to the war, industrial efficiency was almost unknown outside the United States and Germany. But today France is industrially efficient. It was the necessity of saving the nation by incredible increases in the production of munitions and military supplies that taught France the lesson.

France's output of powder today is 44 times greater than before the war, her output of rifles 237 times greater, machine guns 98 times greater, cannon 25 times greater, 75-shells 54 times greater, heavy artillery 23 times greater.

This increase in productivity, due in part to an increased number of factories, is due principally to perfected efficiency.

Munitions, however, tell only half the story. All supplies necessary for equipment and maintaining millions of men in the field tell the other half.

The chemical industry in France which before the war was monopolized by Germany, has tripled in southern France in the vicinity of

Limoges and Dijon, doubled; while in the vicinity of Lyons it has taken the form of new lines, entirely unknown in France before the war.

When peace comes, this lesson of efficiency will be applied to every industry in France with an increase in the national productivity and wealth calculated to startle the world.

Other lessons of efficiency and maximum productivity have been taught to the French by the Germans at heavy cost. The French iron fields of the Basin of Briey, held by the Germans since the beginning of hostilities, produced for the French in 1913, 15,000,000 tons of iron and steel. The Germans, since they got possession of them, have made them produce 21,000,000. When France gets them back, she proposes to make them produce as much for her as they did for the Germans.

Efficiency in agriculture also has come to France through the hard necessity of Prussian occupation. Since the beginning of hostilities the Germans have occupied 2,000,000 out of 53,000,000 acres, 2,000,000 acres that are the most productive in France. Before the war they produced $1,000,000,000 annually or one-tenth of the national production and wealth.

Unfortunately with their passing into the hands of the enemy, France did not experience a corresponding increase in her population. She has within her borders today, 1,000,000 war refugees—Belgians, Serbians, French, Alsaitians—so that 2,000,000 acres less of territory, she is still obliged to maintain her normal population of about 40,000,000. Enforced agricultural efficiency is enabling her to do it. Her wheat acreage for 1916 is 5,034,510 acres as against 6,571,580 for 1914 when she had 2,000,000 more acres of territory; her 1916 rye acreage is 920,975 as against 1,201,630 of 1914.

With the close of the war this agricultural efficiency and intensity will increase.

France has been unable to complete statistics on the miracles being wrought in her national productivity by the suppression of absinthe and the restriction of alcoholic consumption. Minister of Finance Ribot, however, states that the results are amazingly apparent and insure even greater restriction with the return of peace.

Before the war female labor was almost unknown in France. Estimates just completed state that with the war women will represent from 75 to 80 per cent of the labor in France. In the munition work alone 150,000 women are now being employed.

Industries newly invaded by women here include food, chemicals, paper, printing, textiles, clothing, leather, wood metal, pottery, transportation and business generally.

War's Effects in Italy

BY JOHN H. HEARLEY

Rome, July 3 (By Mail)—Italy, eighteen months ago was commercially and industrially bound hand and foot to Germany. War unloosed the bonds. With the help of English finances, Italy today is working out her own commercial salvation.

When war began in 1914, millions of dollars in German money suddenly were withdrawn from Italian enterprises and the tourist trade, Italy's chief source of wealth, stopped. A national moratorium became necessary. The bank of Italy and other patriotic institutions saved the country from bankruptcy.

Readjustment was in progress when war between Italy and Austria was declared. A general war tax levy was prepared. Even the household piano did not escape. On all checks and receipts, a recent levy of two cents up has been placed.

With munition factories, Italy became dotted. They were a preparation for war and its aftermath, for they are so put up they may be converted into factories of peace. An arms factory near Naples will become a dye works. Other plants will become machine shops. New Italy dreams of real industrial greatness within ten years.

The sudden elimination of German imports threw a financial burden on the Italian people. Many things increased in price, but the advances served to bring out the inventive genius of the Latin race. Drugs, clothes and other products looked on as exclusively German, began to be made at home.

Nothing better illustrates Germany's industrial invasion of Italy than its manufacture of typically Italian goods. For centuries the Romans and Florentines have been artists in hand made mosaic floors and ceilings and dress ornaments. The Germans invented machines for such manufacture at home. German-made mosaics for years have been sold in Italy far much cheaper than the Italian product could be.

The government is encouraging Italian industry. Associations to make Italian own Italy, are everywhere. "Italy First" is the new motto. Recently all the Italian traveling men organized into one big association.

War Effects in Russia.

By William Philip Simms.

(U. P. Staff Correspondent.)

Petrograd, July 3.—(By Mail)—Two years of war has done Russia good. She has not shirked in battle, has fought her best, paid the price in blood and bone and notwithstanding, is better off today than she was two years ago.

Russia's first big win was by abolishing vodka. Russia is without drunkards. Her second was her economic and industrial awakening. She is learning to walk alone. This double social miracle wrought by the war ought to prove a compensation to Russia for all she has lost or stands to lose.

Russia has nearly 200 million people of whom about 160 million, or 80 per cent are peasants. These are better off than ever in their lives. They get good cash prices for what they sell. The high cost of living does not affect them much as they live off their farms. Labor is scarce but what there is, is sober and accomplishes more than used to be accomplished when it was plentiful.

The peasants today have money. Prior to the war, 800 million rubles (400 million dollars) a year left the villages and country to pay for drink. All this money now remains in the country.

Some 500 million rubles a year are now paid by the government as pensions or war allowances to the families of soldiers. Therefore, at least a billion 300 million rubles a year are now in the villages and country, which, before the war, were not there.

Shidlovsky, president of the controlling bloc in the Duma, himself, a land owner, told me: "I am now employing a number of men on my plantation whom I had been compelled to fire before the war on account of drink."

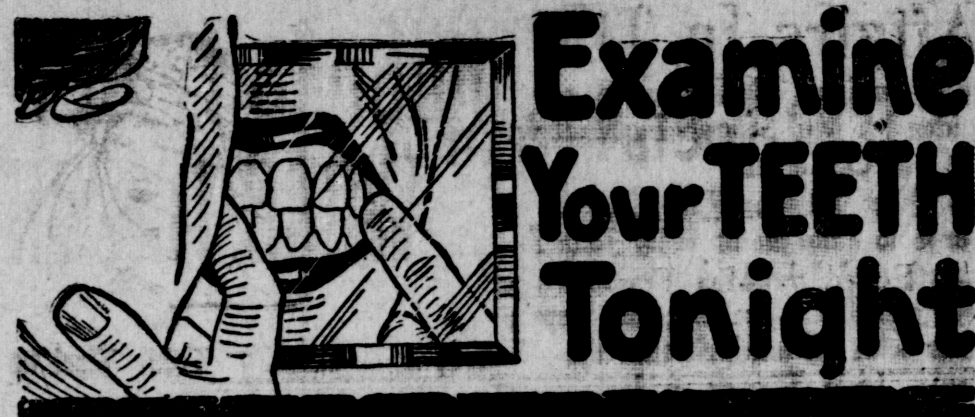

"In the villages, a veritable miracle has taken place. Characters I used to recognize as drunkards, wife-beaters, and ne'er-do-wells generally, have been completely transformed by the lack of vodka. They wear good clothes and are clean. On Sundays you see them at church with their wives neatly dressed without the black eyes which used to be characteristic of them.

"Carpenters, cobblers, jobbers and workmen generally are doing better work and more work now that they can't drink. Drink abolition has worked a social and economical revolution in this country."

Everything is expensive in Russia at present largely owing to lack of transportation facilities in the interior and lack of a good seaport. But high prices really affect a comparative few—the college professors, lawyers, members of the professions, clerks, etc.—whose incomes have not been increased since the war. The working classes, as a rule, are less hit because work is plentiful and wages two or three times as high as they were two years ago. Various citizen organizations have done good work along this line, keeping things going.

At the start of the war, Russia's crops were threatened. Russia was utterly dependent on her crops and if they failed her, she would really be up against it. The Union of local or county councils all over the Empire got busy, joined hands with the military and the job was done. Squads of laborers were told off to gather in the produce. No corner of the country was too remote to pass unnoticed. The crops were saved to the last grain, in no time at all.

This was the work of the All-Russian Zemstvo Union, a national organization born of the war. This great group of plain people ever since has been working to support the army and the nation, taking care of interior labor problems as they concerned the rural districts, helping distribute and look after the refugees and aiding in supplying the army at the front.

Examine Your TEETH Tonight

—after you clean them.

You will find, in all probability, an accumulation of tartar on the enamel and bits of food deposit hiding between the crevices. YOUR DENTIFRICE does not FULLY CLEAN! Loss of teeth is caused usually by one of two conditions—Pyorrhea or decay, both of which develop, as a rule, only in the mouth where germ-laden tartar is present.

SENRECO, the recently discovered formula of a dental specialist, is two-fold in its action. First, it REALLY CLEANS, embodying specially prepared, soluble granules unusually effective in cleaning away food deposits. Second, it is particularly destructive to the germ of Pyorrhea. Yet it is perfectly safe, containing neither injurious chemicals nor hard grit.

HUGHES TO GET WORD TONIGHT

Will be Formally Told That he is the Republican Nominee for President—Only 2 Speeches

FIRST BY SENATOR HARDING

Hughes Speech Will be His Keynote and Will Outline Policies of Interest to Public

BY PERRY ARNOLD
(U. P. Staff Correspondent.)

New York, July 31—Former Justice Charles Evans Hughes has been working for six weeks as Republican nominee, but tonight he will go through the function of being formally told that the representatives of the g. o. p., in convention assembled at Chicago last June, voted him their standard bearer.

A survival of the days when there were no telegraphs and news moved slowly by courier and coach, the "notification ceremony" tonight was to be transformed into a "love feast" by the Republicans.

Carnegie Hall, seating nearly 4,000 people, will be packed with old line republicans, new line republicans, former democrats, progressives and just plain people. Before this audience and through the press associations and newspapers—Governor Hughes will make his preliminary appeal for Republican votes.

As arranged for today, there were to be just two speeches—a very brief one from Senator Warren G. Harding, who was chairman of the Chicago convention, and who was appointed chairman of the notification committee. Harding will gently break the news to Hughes that he was named Republican presidential nominee. Hughes will respond in a speech of probably five or ten thousand words—his "keynote" for the campaign.

The former Governor has been working on this speech ever since he got the unofficial word from Chicago that he was nominated. In it he will give his views on practically every policy of interest to the public. He will make a powerful appeal for unity of effort, announce a welcome to progressives of all types, and probably indicate what issue he considers of paramount importance in the coming campaign.

Immediately after the formal notification ceremonies in Carnegie Hall, members of the Republican national committee, the campaign committee, the senatorial and congressional campaign committees, and scores of specially invited Republican and Progressive leaders, will be Hughes' guests at a reception at the Hotel Astor.

There was a report circulated here today that Colonel Roosevelt and former president Taft might publicly bury the axe of their political and personal quarrel by both being present.

FEARING THIEF, KILLS HIS FRIEND

G. W. Clingman Deeply Grieved Over
Accidental Shooting of George
Perry, 25, Sunday.

HE IS READY TO GIVE BOND

Prosecutor Stevens Will Probably
Not File Charge Until Coroner's
Verdict is Returned.

STATEMENT OF CLINGMAN

Says he Was Awakened by Wife and
Shot Through Window With no
Intention of Hitting Anyone.

Awakened by his wife who believed someone was attempting to either rob the house or steal their chickens, George W. Clingman, living on the Sarah Mull farm, two miles northeast of Manilla, arose quickly, secured his .22 calibre rifle and fired three shots in the direction of the lane leading from the house to the road. One of the bullets entered the head of George Perry, 25, of Manilla, two inches back of the left ear, resulting in death two hours later. The shooting occurred shortly after midnight Saturday.

Clingman, following the shooting, went back to bed and did not know he had even hit anyone until about four o'clock Sunday morning when Coroner Green, Sheriff Cavitt and Deputy Sullivan went to his home to get his statement and arrest him. Even while making his statement he did not know Perry was dead and, in fact, did not know whom he had hit. It was while putting up his horse preparatory to going with the officers that he inquired of Lon Mull the condition of his victim and was told that he was dead. Clingman was almost overcome. He and Perry were close personal friends and had often visited together. Clingman was greatly affected when he realized that he had killed his friend. Clingman told a straightforward story to the officers and repeated the story in his testimony to the coroner.

The case is one of the most peculiar ever brought to the attention of the local officers. A crowd of five Manilla men, including George Perry, his father, Robert Perry and brother, Clayton, and John Coers and Burn Purcell had been fishing in Blue River as had been their custom for some time past. In going to the river they passed through the lane leading to the Clingman home and on out through the barn lot down to the river. They were returning from the fishing trip when the tragedy occurred.

Mr. and Mrs. Clingman had lived on the Mull farm only since last Thursday and the fact that the fishermen were not aware of this led them to take the usual course in going to and from the river. Clingman and wife had been in Manilla earlier in the evening shopping, and after spending some time with his father, Rolla Clingman, returned home, arriving there about ten o'clock.

Clingman in his statement to the coroner said that they retired shortly after and some time later he was awakened by his wife, who believed someone was trying to rob them. Mrs. Clingman, according to the statement, said she saw a rig out in the lane. Clingman did not pay much attention to his wife until she called some time later. This time the second buggy was going down the lane. Clingman says that he then became frightened and grabbing his rifle fired three shots through the open window of their bed room, although he could not see the rig. Clingman says he heard no cries, and as he did not intend to shoot anyone but merely wished to frighten anyone trying to take their chickens, he again went back to bed. Then, according to his story, the next thing to happen was his arrest.

George Perry and his brother, Clayton, and Purcell were in the second rig and the one that Clingman fired upon. The bullet went through the buggy top and entered on the left side of the head, two inches below the ear. When it was seen that young Perry had been hit, he was rushed to his home as quickly as possible where he was given medical attention. He was conscious part of the time and told his relatives that he believed he was going to die. Young Perry died without knowing that one of his best friends fired the fatal shot. The rifle ball entered his skull and buried itself in the base of his brain.

The other side of the case presents just as interesting a story. The five men seeing the buggy in the barn yard of the Clingman home and not knowing that anyone had moved in thought that perhaps someone was robbing the summer home of Mrs. Mull. No one had lived in this house on the Mull farm for a period of three months. In fact Clingman had not completely furnished the house. It is pointed out that had the fishermen known someone was living in the house they would have made themselves known or else would have used different tactics in going down the lane.

Clingman in his statement to the coroner declared that he did not intend to kill anyone and believed that he was shooting in the air. Coroner Green has not yet completed his investigation, having several other witnesses to examine. His verdict will probably show that Perry died from a rifle wound and that the shot was fired by Clingman. It is not believed that his verdict will attempt to place the blame or go into the merits of the case or recommend anything pertaining to charges against Clingman. Testimony of Robert Perry, father of the dead man, will not be taken until after the funeral because of his condition.

It is not believed that any charge will be filed by Prosecutor Stevens until the verdict of the coroner has been filed. Clingman made arrangements to give bond, but the bond could not be fixed in the absence of a charge. He does not seem anxious to be released and is contented to let things take their natural course.

As far as is known Clingman has not been in any trouble before. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Rolla Clingman of near Homer, both of whom are well known. Rolla Clingman was convicted of killing his father-in-law, Stewart Miller, about seven years ago and served a few years in prison.

Perry, the victim, formerly lived south of the city, but for the past several years had been employed by the Pennsylvania railway in Manilla. He had been married several years, and is survived by his widow in addition to his parents and brother. The funeral services will be conducted Tuesday morning at ten o'clock at the late residence and burial will take place in East Hill cemetery.

CHARGED WITH PROVOKE

Addie Warfield was arrested this morning on a provoke charge filed by Mrs. Dora Short. She entered a plea of not guilty and the trial was set for Thursday night at 7:30 o'clock. Mrs. Short pleaded guilty to a similar charge last week filed by Mrs. Warfield and now comes back and files the affidavit against her accuser.

EXCESSIVE HEAT BROKEN BY RAIN

Severe Electrical Storm Late Today
Promises to Usher in Cooler
Weather.

MERCURY DROP PREDICTED

Humidity in Atmosphere Makes Sunday and Monday Apparently Hottest Days Yet.

Shivers! There's
Cold Wave Coming!

(By United Press.)
Chicago, July 31.—Cooler weather was in sight for the middle west today after a day of record-breaking heat. A cold wave, according to the weather bureau, will hit this section tonight. Today, it was predicted, will be cooler than yesterday, but will still be hot.

Death's toll in Chicago yesterday from the heat was 117. This makes a total of 264 deaths in Chicago in the past four days as a result of the heat.

Rain late this afternoon threatened to give relief from the excessive heat. Summer continued on the job over Sunday and was still here today. The temperature this afternoon shortly before the rain was 97 degrees in the business district. The temperature Sunday kept up the record of the past week.

Many people complained of the heat last night, declaring that it was the warmest night of the present hot spell. There was a nice breeze most of the day Sunday, but as soon as the sun went down it stopped and the humidity was especially noticeable.

A severe electrical storm accompanied the rain this afternoon but at a late hour no damage had been reported.

BATHING BEACH NOT CONDEMNED

Health Authorities Take no Action
but Say There is Danger
Staying in Water too Long

NO TRUTH IN TYPHOID RUMOR

Rumors that the swimming hole had been condemned by the health officials, are unfounded. The bathing beach is on the farm of Dr. Frank Green. Dr. W. C. Smith, county health commissioner, stated today that he would make no effort to stop swimming there. He stated that in his opinion there was no danger from the water but advised against staying in too long at a time.

Yesterday and today there were rumors that several cases of typhoid fever had been traced to the bathing beach but this is not true. One young man suffered a slight attack of pneumonia in one lung as a result of staying in the water too long and then exposing himself after coming out. According to Dr. Smith the water is fit to bathe in and those who have been visiting the place need have no fear from this source.

Petrograd, July 31.—After fierce fighting around Brody the Russian forces have thrust their way forward again, this time taking ground from the Teutons up to the rivers Graberki and Seret.

TO TOUR COUNTY FOR CHAUTAUQUA

Flying Squadrons Will Visit all
Towns Wednesday and Friday
Nights Advertising

TO GIVE MUSICAL PROGRAMS

Persons Forgetting Season Tickets
Must Pay Single Admission—
Can Get it Back

One week from today the annual Rush county chautauqua will be in full swing. The assembly will open next Sunday, the sixth, and will continue for eight days, closing on Sunday, the thirteenth.

The flying squadron of automobiles is to be utilized again this year in advertising the chautauqua in the county. On Wednesday and Friday nights of this week automobile loads of singers and entertainers and speakers will travel to all of the towns in the county and urge people to visit this year's assembly.

There will be two squadrons each evening. On Wednesday night one group of machines will leave here and make stops at Arlington, Cartage and Mays in the order named. The other group will go to Glenwood, Palomouth and Raleigh and join the other party at Mays and return home together.

On Friday night the first squadron will go to New Salem, Andersonville and Milroy. The other crowd will visit Homer and Manilla and join the others at Milroy.

With each squadron on both nights will be eight girls who will give a brief musical program at each stop. There will also be cornet and violin solos and probably other instrumental numbers arranged. There will be a spokesman for each crowd who will outline the program at the chautauqua and extoll the qualities of the entertainers and lecturers.

The flying squadrons will leave the Main Street Christian church each evening at six-thirty o'clock. Those who can go and can furnish machines are asked to notify Carl Webb or Chauncey Duncan.

It was announced today that the same policy will be followed this year as was started last year regarding patrons of the chautauqua who forget their season tickets.

No matter whether they are known to the gate keeper, each person who comes to the gate without their season ticket will have to pay the single admission price to get in. They will be given a receipt to show that they paid the single admission and upon presentation of their season ticket the money will be refunded.

The board or directors decided upon this plan so as to be fair to all. Up to last year the gate keepers often admitted people who forgot their season tickets when they were known to the gate keepers. But not infrequently a person unknown to the gate keepers forgets his or her season ticket and it was not considered fair to allow one the privilege of entering without a ticket if not all.

BLOOMS SECOND TIME

EXPLOSION WILL RESULT IN PROBE

Investigation of Shipment End of Munition Promised After Terrible New York Loss.

LOSS FROM 20 TO 50 MILLION

Most Amazing Phase is Fact That
Death List Will Not Exceed
Ten or Fifteen

(By United Press.)
New York, July 31.—Comprehensive investigation will be made into the shipment end of the munitions business of the country by state and federal authorities as a direct result of the monstrous explosion that occurred at the Black Tom munition terminal Sunday.

Hints of such an investigation came today when Prosecuting Attorney Hadsteth at the preliminary hearing of two men arrested on the charges of manslaughter in connection with the resultant death, declared every railroad terminating in New Jersey has been a flagrant violator of statutes regulating storage of high explosives.

Agents from the department of justice and interstate commerce commission spent nearly all day on the scene. On their report will depend whether the commission will go more fully into the case. This phase, however, will not deter state and busy city officials in their investigation.

Most amazing of all the startling features of this greatest explosion on record is the growing belief this afternoon that the death list will not exceed ten or fifteen at the outside. As the flames died out this afternoon and searchers prepared to go through the ruins of the Lehigh Valley docks, only 4 persons were known to have died.

They were Leyden Conrad, the Lehigh Valley's chief of police; Arthur Tossen, baby, shocked to death, and two unidentified men. Twenty-three men are reported missing. Estimates of the property loss range from $20,000,000 to $50,000,000.

CAUSE BELIEVED TO BE ACCIDENTAL

Unless Federal Agents Find it Otherwise
New York Explosion Will
Not be Investigated.

TO DETERMINE ITS CAUSE

(By United Press.)
Washington, July 31.—Nothing to indicate other than accidental cause for the gigantic explosion of yesterday morning in New York harbor has been found by federal agents.

The justice department's bureau of investigation stated today this in the report sent in by agents of the bureau at work on the case. Unless members of the New York staff of the bureau find something to indicate the wrecking of the stores of allies explosives was due to outside interference, the bureau will not take any further steps.

El Paso, Texas, July 31.—Three troopers of the Eighth United States cavalry were killed in a running fight with Mexican bandits near Ft. Stockton, early today, according to reports here. She detachments of American cavalry killed five of the Mexicans. None of the dead has been identified.

War's Effects in England

BY ED. L. KEENE
(By United Press.)

London, July 10 (By Mail)—The classes are paying for this war; the masses are profiting by it.

This statement applies, of course, not only when the subject is considered from the purely financial angle. It would be a hopeless task to measure the toll of blood and tears that both paid. British aristocracy and British proletariat have both contributed generously to their young manhood, and doubtless on this second anniversary of the war there are proportionately as many broken homes among the wage-earners as among the nobility. The war so far has made in Great Britain 30,042 widows and deprived 83,389 children of their fathers. The Jutland naval battle alone added 1,550 widows to the roll.

In the material things of life never in England's history have the rich been poorer, or the poor richer than today. Under the new sliding scale of income duties, devised to help the nation's war bill of twenty-five million dollars a day, the capitalist whose yearly income is $100,000 turns nearly forty per cent of it into the Treasury, whereas the thousand dollar wage-earner is let off with six per cent. Before the war the $100,000 man was making perhaps twice as much; while the present thousand dollar laborer was earning only $500 or $600.

With the exception of those directly interested in the munitions industry, the revenues of England's wealthiest families generally have been materially impaired, even before McKenna's tax collector comes round. The war reduced their rentals and business; also very patriotically they have transferred large well-paying investments into smaller-paying government securities.

On the other hand, the manual laborer and his family are prospering as they never could have hoped to in peace time, even though he has gone to the war; for in that event the chances are that his wife and his daughters and his under-age sons are working in munitions factories, or elsewhere at wages he himself would have been glad to get in other days.

The war has temporarily remedied two of England's greatest social evils, unemployment and pauperism. The other evening the writer strolled down Fleet Street and the Strand and returning to the United Press office by way of the Embankment encountered only two beggars—both old men and blind. Two years ago he would have been accosted by fifty or more most of them able-bodied men eager to work.

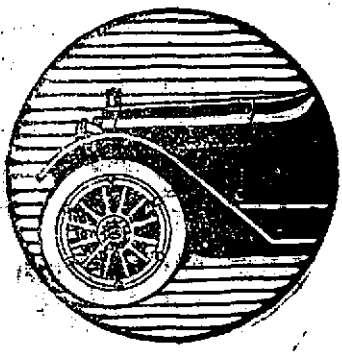

A good deal has been said about the increased cost of living here as a result of the war. Recent figures from the "Board of Trade Gazette" place the average advance in the

NEWS REPORTS TELL THE STORY

Belie Statements Made by Democat-
 ic Press That Progressive Party
 is Alive in Indiana

ONLY 175 DELEGATES THERE

Balconies Were Deserted, Says One
 Paper at Convention and Spectators Were Scarce.

Indianapolis, Ind., July 31.—As
 was to have been expected the Dem-cratic press of Indiana, sorely distressed over the way the tide is running towards Republicanism, has
 seized on the fact that Ed Lee's party
 nominated a state ticket the other
 day and is proceeding to "blow it
 up" with the notion to deluding some
 into thinking that such action really
 amounted to something. The Democratic papers are saying much about
 the enthusiasm and determination of Lee's convention and endeavoring
 heroically to create the opinion that
 the "convention" was remarkable in
 its size and character. It was.

Let the Indianapolis newspapers in
 their news report of the convention,
 tell the story. Said The Star:
 "It was a small convention, possibly smaller than some of the enthusiastic leaders expected. There were only 175 delegates and proxy
 holders in the seats, although the
 allotment of the convention was 544
 delegates. There were, at times, as many as 100 spectators in the rear
 seats and in the balcony. The balcony visitors thinned out after noon,
 and at the conclusion of the day's work there were not more than a dozen persons there. A band of twenty-four members occupied seats
 in the balcony."

The Daily Times, in its report of
 the convention said, "The balconies
 were deserted."

"Probably 250 persons were in the
 hall when the meeting opened," said
 the news. "They were scattered
 among the various sections assigned
 to the districts. D. N. Foster of Ft.
 Wayne, who was expelled from membership on the credentials committee
 and suffered a cancellation of his credentials as a delegate, was the only man in the Twelfth district section."

By actual count there were 97 delegates present—nothing like the convention showing of the Socialist,
 Prohibitionists or minor parties.

John F. Lawrence of Peru, member of the Progressive state committee from the Eleventh district, was
 one of the few participants opposed
 to Lee's plan who was permitted to say anything in the convention. Before the Lee band could howl him
 down Mr. Lawrence said:

"The majority of the delegates
 didn't think it was necessary to
 come. They know the party is dead,
 and that a convention is farcical.
 This view prevails, not only among
 the delegates, but among the rank
 and file of the men who made the
 great Progressive party of 1912 and 1914 in Indiana."

PARTIES AGREE TO PASSAGE OF LAW

Workmen's Compensation For Government Employees Will be Carried Out as Suggested.

URGED BY LABOR FEDERATION

(By United Press.)

Washington, July 31.—Passage of a Workmen's compensation act for
 government employees, on lines suggested by the American Federation
 of Labor, today was agreed on by
 Democratic and Republican leaders.

For six years it has gone through
 all the stages of congressional action except final passage. Something always stopped it there. This year the federation demanded of
 both conventions the passage of the
 bill before congress adjourned to
 take up the Fall campaign, on pain
 of the federation's doing a "little
 campaigning itself."

The bill provides, in case of:
 Death—thirty-five per cent to widow or widower, until their death or remarriage, with 10 per cent, additional for each dependent child.

Total disability—Two thirds of
 wages, in no case to be less than $33.33 monthly.

Partial Disability—Two thirds of
 the difference between wages earned
 before and after injury. Refusal of
 a partially disabled man to do what
 work he can do makes him ineligible
 to any payment.

Medical care for a reasonable
 time after an injury is suffered in government service is provided, and
 in case of death $100 for funeral expenses is allowed.

Intoxication or wilful carelessness
 on duty makes a federal employee ineligible to benefits under the act.

Amusements

"The Girl with the Green Eyes," has been made into a Pathe Gold Rooster Play in five parts, featuring Katherine Kaelred and Julian L'Estrange. It will be shown at the Gem theatre today and is a feature you can ill afford to miss. What happens when a woman's uncontrollable jealousy leads to a near-tragedy and causes her to forfeit her husband's love, is the subject of this play, declared by some to be the most dramatic of Clyde Fitch's great creations. Tomorrow matinee and night the next number of "Peg o' the Ring," which features Francis Ford and Grace Cunard will be shown.

The Princess offers the five act feature "What Will People Say?" for the program tonight. Mme. Petrova is featured. The story is a vital one of today and deals with the problem, which confronts a young woman who is used to every luxury, of choosing between the man of her heart and a man of wealth and affluence. There are scores of big and thrilling moments in the production and Mme. Petrova is seen at her best, in a role that is specially adapted to her marvelous talents. She is supported by a strong cast including Fritz de Lint, Fraunie Fraunholtz, William Morse, Jean Thomas and others. Tomorrow the three act drama "The Primal Instinct" with Leah Baird and Van Dyke Brook will be shown.

MAY BE AGENCY FOR RECRUITING

Postmaster is Allowed to Procure Men for Army, According to New Act by Congress

LIMITED TO THREE CLASSES

Postmaster Hunt Will Receive $5 For Each Recruit if President so Decees

Postmaster G. P. Hunt may have a chance to "pick up a little loose change," if President Wilson so decrees, because by an act of congress approved June 3, 1916, postmasters of the second, third and fourth classes may be used in procuring enlistments for the army, at the discretion and direction of the president of the United States.

For each enlistment, the act provides, the postmaster shall receive five dollars. The postmaster general A. S. Burleson, Adjutant General H. P. McCain and Major General H. L. Scott, chief of staff, have signed an order which says that postmasters of the classes mentioned will, without neglecting their official duties, render the officers of the army all the assistance possible in their efforts to obtain recruits. The plan will not be effective until an official order is sent out decreeing that it shall be. The following extracts are from the measure:

"Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled:

"Sec. 27. And provided further, that the President is authorized in his discretion to utilize the services of the postmasters of the second, third, and fourth class in procuring the enlistment of recruits for the army, and for each recruit accepted for enlistment in the army the postmaster procuring his enlistment shall receive the sum of $5.

"Recruiting officers in charge of recruiting stations will give a copy of this circular to each postmaster of the second, third and fourth classes in the recruiting district of which the officer has charge. The postmasters will procure as many desirable applicants for enlistments as possible in the particular localities in which the postmasters reside, and report the names of such desirable applicants to the recruiting officer from whom the bulletin was received. The recruiting officer will either go himself or send a competent member of his recruiting party to the particular postoffice for the purpose of examining the applicants procured by the postmaster. The recruiting officer or the member of his recruiting party so sent will forward the applicants deemed acceptable by him either to the recruiting station or to the proper recruit depot, whichever is deemed most expedient, considering economy of transportation, which will be provided the applicant in the usual way.

taking a vacation. She is visiting in Indianapolis.

R. C. Hinman who has been foreman of the Pyle Laundry, has accepted a similar position in Indianapolis. He and Mrs. Hinman and daughter, Ina, will leave Saturday to make their permanent residence there.

An ice cream social is to be given Saturday evening in the Falmouth hall by the members of the Mission Circle and the C. W. B. M. of the Christian church. The members of the former organization are raising $60 for the College of Missions and their part of the proceeds will go toward that.

In connection with the combination service of the Epworth League and church at the St. Paul's M. E. church last evening, Dr. C. E. Bacon, district superintendent from Connersville, delivered an excellent address.

A duet was sung by Miss Jessie Gillispie and Mrs. F. E. Wolcott and a quartette by O. P. Wamsley, Dwight VanOsdel, Barton Caldwell, and Harold Wolcott. This will conclude the evening services until after the month of August.

A New Back for an Old One—How a

Rushville Resident Made a
Bad Back Strong

The back aches at times with a dull indescribable feeling, making you weary and restless; piercing pains shoot across the region of the kidneys, and again the loins are so lame that to stoop is agony. No use to rub or apply a plaster to the back if the kidneys are weak. You cannot reach the cause. Follow the example of this Rushville citizen.

Charley Walker, 1023 N. Arthur St., Rushville, says: "I work where a lot of turpentine is used and it keeps my kidneys out of order more or less all the time. My back gives me the most trouble. It aches and is lame and stiff. The kidney secretions are too frequent, in passage and highly colored. Not long ago, I decided to try Doan's Kidney Pills and got a box at Lytle's Drug Store. They surely helped me and considerably relieved the trouble. I have a lot of faith in Doan's Kidney Pills and expect to continue their use."

Price 50c. at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Walker had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.—(Adv.)

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

One Thing After Another

Just as we are theoretically putting ourselves on the back in the fond belief that we have diplomatically sidestepped the dangers of international complications we are suddenly confronted with the possibility of serious trouble with England over her now famous blacklist.

First it was Mexico, and after many long months of notes and talks and confabs and the mobilization of troops a silver lining appeared in the clouds and war was deferred at least.

Then differences with Germany arose and for a long time we tottered on the brink of deadly strife. That happily was eventually removed and we breathed again.

Then Mexico broke out afresh and the National Guard was rushed to the border a 100,000 strong, where it is sweltering in the sun and dodging the bullets of the snipers across the Rio Grande. For a time it looked as though war was inevitable, but Carranza needed money and became a "good Indian" in order to extract more gold from Wall Street. That is the Mexican status today. Peace again seems at least in prospect, until England stepped upon the American toe, and now we are face to face with another crisis.

And thus we go on from day to day. One day it is peace, and the next it is the imminence of war, while even a few days hence are enshrouded in impenetrable mystery. These indeed are the days when the wise men sleep with both eyes.

Issues Plain.

In a letter to Ew Lee, declining to stand as a candidate for contingent presidential elector at large on Lee's party ticket, D. J. Troyer, of Goshen, Indiana, said:

"It seems to me that the issues which are predominant in this campaign demand that we be either for the present administration or against it. Either President Wilson will be re-elected or Judge Hughes will be authorized to take control of the national government.

"People who believe that our government should tolerate the conditions now existing in Mexico; that we should tamely submit to the denial of our right to use the high seas without interference by European nations; that we should not resent acts similar to those which caused the second war for independence in 1812; that neutral nations have no rights which belligerent countries are required to respect; that we should desert the Philippines and turn them over to those who would make of them another Mexico, we should continue 'watchful waiting' and, 'thanking God that we are too proud to fight,' sit idly by while the smaller neutral nations are looking to us for leadership in a movement to recover something of the privileges which international law allows such nations—all of such will desire to cast their votes for a continuation of these conditions.

"Those who do not favor the continuation of these conditions desire at once to put in practice the initiative, referendum and recall to the end that present policies may be reversed.

"Believing that no other issue should be permitted to obscure the main question, I can not conscientiously permit my name to be used on the ticket. In this I believe that I represent the wishes of nearly all of the 4,500 Progressive voters of Elkhart County."

We have been reading a lot lately about those man eating sharks that suddenly appeared along the Atlantic coast and frightened the bathers from the water. But we note, without surprise, that not a chirp is vouchsafed regarding the two-legged sharks that infest the bathing beaches and devour the young girls who daily fall into their clutches. But, then, the two legged shark is socially, politically and financially powerful and it would be extremely discourteous and unwise to disturb him in the enjoyment of his "innocent pastime." A shark is a shark, but his status is qualified by the breed.

Feeling the summer heat a little too much for comfort? Take a good bath every night before retiring, keep fresh clean underwear next to your body, pay strict attention to your digestion, drink plenty of pure water, and you will feel a different person in a very short time.

A daily paper says: "It is not safe to rely solely upon dreadnaughts, or cruisers, or submarines. A modern navy must be well balanced. Naval experts know what is needed and the senate bill follows their recommendations as nearly as is politically possible." There it is again! "Politically possible." The country's needs playing second fiddle to politics.

A few months ago we were peeved at the cold weather and were wishing that summer would hurry along. It is here in all the glory of its scorching rays, and now we are wondering and longing for the good winter days again. We just never can be satisfied, no matter what we get.

BE BIGGEST DAY

Every One Will be Good But That Event in State Centennial Will Be Best

TO BE MASSED BAND CONCERT

Letters Being Sent to County Centennial Chairman Urging Immediate Action

The following statement by the Indiana Historical Commission explains the plans for the state centennial celebration which will be a climax to all the county celebrations.

Every day will be a big day at the State Celebration to be held at Indianapolis, October 2 to 14, but biggest and most popular of all will be County Day, October 6. The big event will be the processional pageant of the counties, in which it is desired that each county in the state will be on hand with one or more floats representing some phase of its history or some notable characteristic. Behind each county's float will come decorated autos containing present and former residents of that county.

In the evening a monster meeting will be held in the State Fair Coliseum, when a concert given by a massed band, made up of the various county bands which shall have come in for the parade, will be given. Arrangements will probably be made whereby the vast audience will be seated by counties as at a state political convention.

Work will be begun at once toward forming ninety-two auxiliary county organizations in Indianapolis each one of which will help boost for its county for which it will act as a reception committee on October 6. The population of the Hoosier Capitol has been very largely recruited from Indiana itself, the County Day should serve as a great opportunity for identification and the rebirth of old and dear associations.

No county can afford to go unrepresented on this great occasion. W. C. Woodward, chairman for County Day, is sending out letters to the county Centennial chairmen over the state, urging immediate and favorable action in the matter. The co-operation of all civic and commercial bodies and public spirited citizens is asked to the end that October 6 may be the red letter day of the Centennial year.

August Schedule

County celebrations scheduled to take place in August are as follows: Pike county at Petersburg, 3 and 4; Elkhart at Goshen, 5; Marshall at Plymouth, 6 to 11; Rush at Rushville, 6 to 13; Park at Rockville, 12 and 13; Miami at Peru, 14 to 19; Steuben at Angola, 16 and 17; Washington at Salem, 24 to 28. In addition to these, many town and township celebrations are announced such as that of Troy in Perry county, 10 to 12, and that of Vernon in Jennings county, 23 to 27. Township celebrations are being held in many counties, preliminary to the county observance.

Water Pageant for Posey

"Something different," is heralded by Posey county, in the way of a water pageant to be given on the Ohio river as the chief event of its Centennial celebration, to be held at Mt. Vernon, September 13 to 15. The pageant will be written by Mrs. Nora C. Fretageot of New Harmony. For pageant master, Chairman L. T. Osborn and his committee have been so fortunate as to secure Mrs. Mary H. Flanner of Indianapolis, who directed so successfully the Earlham Pageant June 13. Her ability is well known in Posey county and the Pocket district, she having directed the New Harmony pageant in 1914.

Current Comments

Still Wedded to Folly
(Omaha Bee)

That remarkable literary document sent out from the St. Louis convention as the platform of the democratic party is emphatically clear on some scattered points. One of these is the unqualified endorsement of the administration shipping bill; now pending before congress. That this measure was rejected a year ago does not lessen the devotion of the president and his secretary of the treasury to its provisions, and they will make all efforts to secure its passage. As at present pending the measure does not in any material way differ from the one that failed in the last congress. It provides for the appropriation of $50,000,000 to be invested in merchant vessels for the seagoing trade, these to be sold or leased to private owners, with the provision that the government has a prior claim upon their services in event of war.

This means the investment of public money in enterprise into which private capital hesitates to venture. The absurdity of the whole thing climaxes in the fact that it is the serious proposal of a party that has always pretended to shrink from subventions of any kind, especially from the payment of subsidies or bonuses. It is also part of the record of the democratic administration that it forced American ships to pay tolls through the Panama canal, a concession to the shipping interests of Europe. A further anachronism is that the measure will open American coastwise trade to foreign built vessels thus compelling the direct competition of our merchant marine with the world in the only field of profit that has been preserved to it by protective laws.

Objections to the Wilson-McAdoo shipping bill have often been stated, and do not lose any weight because of the inclusion of the measure in the St. Louis platform.

7,000 at Pittsburg Camp Begin Final Event of Program.

(By United Press.)
Plattsburg, N. Y., July 31.—Under the personal direction of Major General Leonard Woods, Commander of the United States Army, Department of the East, 7,000 citizen rookies in training here for several weeks started a series of war games today which will close the senior camp for this year.

Participating in the mimic campaign are a lot of New York society young men. The 7,000 includes four regiments of infantry, two squadrons of cavalry, a field artillery detachment and several hundred regulars. The active operations are under the personal direction of Major Peter Murray, Camp Commander and Quartermaster Major Frank Lawton.

FARMERS SEE TRACTORS

St. Louis.

St. Louis, July 31.—The first practical demonstration of tractor farming ever held in the Mississippi valley began here today. Thousands of farmers went to Kinloch, in St. Louis county, where for five days the latest, power-driven agricultural implements will be demonstrated on a thousand acre farm.

Under the auspices of the National Tractor Farming association, harrowing, plowing, seeding, spreading, pulverizing, threshing and harvesting will take up the morning sessions. Each afternoon forty power-driven plows will tear up the ground. The dynamometer tests of draw bar pull of the various makes of plows attracted considerable attention as did the beltwork exhibit.

EFFECTS OF EUROPEAN WAR ON NATIONS DESCRIBED

price of food-stuffs in the last two years at 59 per cent, including the increased duties on tea and sugar as compared with an estimated similar increase in Germany of 120 per cent. This steadily diminishing purchasing power of the pound sterling has been more than compensated by the higher wages and increased opportunities for steady employment for men and women.

A visit to one of London's great department stores any afternoon would convince even a casual investigator that the standard of living among the working classes has improved. The smaller customers that pay cash have increased in numbers, especially in the last year; former big credit accounts have dwindled. Particularly in munition-making districts have tradesmen been profiting. Wage earning families who previously had scarcely enough to keep the wolf at bay now buy expensive wearing apparel, jewelry, etc., in such quantities that the National War Savings Committee is frantically flooding the country with posters and pamphlets, and independent organizations are sending out lecturers beseeching the people to "work hard, spend little and save much" for post war days.

There are scallawags in England today just as there are in Germany; grasping employers, extortionate middlemen, unscrupulous retailers, taking personal advantage of this abnormal situation. Somewhere between the farmer and the housewife the price of milk jumps from six cents to twelve cents a quart. In the matter of bacon, in the first five months of 1916, England imported nearly a million and a half hundred-weight more than in the corresponding period of 1915; yet the government returns show an increase in price to the consumer of 33 per cent, a total increase since the war began of more than 50 per cent. The government is making a real effort to locate the particular culprits.

Nearly two million English women are filling the places in industrial life vacated by their husbands, fathers, sons and brothers. From driving street cars to making shells, switching railroad trains to plowing fields, there is scarcely an avenue of labor in Great Britain not subject to the feminine invasion. Most of them are making men's wages and some of them wearing men's clothes. The London underground railways and omnibus systems are employing 1,532 women and girls. There are 1,200 women street-car conductors in Glasgow. The Great Central Railway has filled the places of 1,756 of its 5,928 men with women. Fifty thousand women have registered with the Board of Agriculture to get out this year's crops.

Suffragettes who used to smash windows are washing them. Instead of shying brickbats at cabinet ministers or defacing golf links, they are nursing soldiers or painting ships. Cultured women who never before turned their hands to labor are milking cows, mowing hay, or operating wireless keys.

When the war is over and the general adjustment comes, will these women who for a time have tasted the sweets of independence be satisfied to return to the plainer fare of domesticity?

The question is almost as big as the biggest social problem England is to face after the war—what to do with her soldiers.

War's Effects in Germany

BY CARL W. ACKERMAN

Berlin, July 3 (By Mail)—As the second year of the war closes, Germany's food problem is about solved. Government economists are turning their faces to the future.

During the last few months the food has been bad. The people have lived through on substitutes. The military campaign has not been materially affected by the change in food conditions at home. There have no troubles so great as the Irish revolution. Food dictator von Batocki took the mask from the world's eyes regarding the food situation. Today he is well on the way to a solution of the problem.

The biggest economic question in Germany is not food, but: "What shall Germany do to meet the preparations of the Allies to declare an economic boycott of Germany and her allies after the war?" Germany has chosen for the solution of this problem Secretary of the Interior

Concerning the relationship of the submarine campaign and the "American Crisis" to the economic situation here, the German people believe their submarine war against merchant ships was a retaliation, a defensive measure, against the English blockade which they say changed international law so that food for non-combatants could be declared contraband.

The view of the German people, as it is impressed upon a correspondent in the last 12 months is this: The submarine war was instituted to break the illegal blockade. Because England did not respect the interests of the unwarring people of Germany, Germany felt she did not need to respect the interests of her enemy. President Wilson, however, undertook to speak for the neutrals against the submarine warfare but so far he has taken no drastic steps against the English blockade.

President Batocki recently told me he lifted the veil from the food situation here to impress on America that if it was fair respecting its relations to the belligerents it would do something to enforce international law as it was before the war respecting food stuffs. Food for non-combatants was not contraband until the English Order in Council was made. Since then, practically no food stuff has come from America to Germany.

The German people have lived through a hard Summer so far as food is concerned. Vegetables and fruit have been plentiful but meat, butter and other fats have been scarce. So at times have been potatoes, rice and beans. The market has been flooded with substitutes. It is undoubtedly true that if the food situation had changed suddenly, from the plenty of last Summer to the scarcity of this Summer, the people could not have adjusted themselves to it. But the change has been gradual. At first one did without meat two days a week, then the number of times increased to four or five. Finally there were meatless weeks but the people ate, complained or laughed and existed from day to day.

An American woman who has lived in Germany several years said she would see a sign in a shop window reading "Butter." She would walk up closer and underneath, in small letters, was the statement that it was "sold out," or else it was an advertisement of a butter substitute made of fats from the roots of plants. There has been a substitute for everything. When there were no more fats to fry with, new frying pans were invented to fry meat without fat.

The scarcity of food caused many abuses and adulterations. A baker in Hamburg was arrested for making bread of sawdust. So was a Berlin merchant arrested for adding 67% of water to butter. Abuses have been watched for and stopped. Prices have been very high. The socialists have complained of them in the Reichstag with some success.

The first big difficulty was the laws of small German states forbidding the export of food. Bavaria has much more food than Prussia. The task of Batocki was to abolish these regulations.

Helfferich, who during the next 20 years will be one of Germany's leading figures has the new task of regulating and developing Germany's industries. Helfferich has had a meteoric career though still in his early forties. Two years he lectured in the University of Berlin, two years more he managed the Anatolian railway, for two years was the president of the Deutsche Bank, then for two years Secretary of the Treasury. Now for two years, so a member of the Reichstag remarked to me one day he will be Secretary of the Interior and then, he added, "he may be the next Chancellor, but not during the war."

Helfferich's immediate job is to prepare for Germany's business in peace time. He is to watch what the Allies do and prepare Germany's industries. Those who know Helfferich believe he will be successful.

There are many plans but the one furthest developed is to have the government import all raw materials, her greatest need, after the war. Thereby the lowest prices can be secured in foreign lands and the products can be sold at a margin in Germany. This margin can be used to pay the debts of the war and so keep down the ever heavy taxes.

It is impossible for anyone to report accurately what the situation is. One can only picture what one sees.

Pains Disappeared After Use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Wilmington, Del.—"I was suffering from a terrible headache and pains in my side, with bearing-down pains and was very nervous. I was always tired, always drowsy, never could get enough sleep and could not eat. I had four doctors and each told me something different. I read of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and decided to try it. I got good results and I now feel better than I have felt for years and I am gaining in weight. I can gladly recommend it to all women."—Mrs. GEORGE W. SEBOLD, 1611 West 4th Street, Wilmington, Del.

Backache and bearing down pains are danger signals which every woman should heed. Remove the cause of these aches and pains by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, that good old root and herb medicine. Thousands of women have testified to its virtues.

For forty years it has been making women strong, curing backache, nervousness, ulceration and inflammation, weakness, displacements, irregularity and periodic pain.

Are Sent to Home of Good Shepherd in Indianapolis

IN JUVENILE COURT BEFORE

Hannah Caster and Helen Crawford were sent to the Home of the Good Shepherd in Indianapolis this morning by Judge Sparks, who held a session of juvenile court in order to hear the complaints against the two girls. Both have been in juvenile court before and were released pending their good behavior.

According to reports coming to the court officials, the two girls have failed to live up to their agreement with the court and Judge Sparks told them that he was sending them away for their own good. The Crawford girl's father, Otis Crawford, appeared in court against her and told of her running away from home recently.

Judge Sparks told them that he believed they needed a little discipline and was of the opinion that staying here would result badly for both. Both girls "took the sentence to heart" and cried as they were being taken from the court house. They will be taken to Indianapolis tomorrow.

FOREST FIRE COSTS THE LIVES OF 184

Greatest Conflagration Northern Ontario Ever Experienced Causes $2,000,000 Loss.

DRIVEN BY A STRONG GALE

(By United Press.) Nough Bay, Ont., July 31.—One hundred and eighty-four lives have so far been lost in the greatest forest fire Northern Ontario has ever experienced. More than $2,000,000 property damage was done, it is estimated.

The fire district formed a strip of territory like a letter J. The fire broke out at four o'clock Saturday afternoon and was reported simultaneously at several points forming a semi-circle from Bourke's to Hearst, over a 100-mile frontage.

Driven by a twenty-mile an hour wind from the south, the flames rolled over the countryside like a thunderstorm, coming up ahead of a hurricane, and with everything dry there was never a chance for people to save anything.

NEVER KILLED MOSQUITO BORED PEOPLE TO DEATH

New York, July 31.—Sam-U-L Donniss, who never so much as killed a mosquito because he doesn't believe in the slaughter of animals, but who is said to have bored dozens of civilians to death with his arguments, entered the workhouse here for a two year visit today because he hailed so many strange persons on Broadway to tell them about himself.

Samuel developed a habit of stopping in front of butcher shops to harangue buyers of meat. He scolded small sized strangers for wearing slaughtered shoe leather. He howled at women with birds on their hats, and when he was sentenced one reporter said he raged and stomped his rubber clad feet so much it was apparent that any hornet wandering into his cell will take its life in its stinger.

during one's travels. One sees no unemployed, except perhaps among some women. All factories are running full time, for eighty per cent of Germany's industries are making war materials. Great municipal improvements are under way such as an extension of the underground railroad in Berlin and the construction of a new dock on the banks of the Spree. There are only a few horses and automobiles but much activity everywhere. Shops are crowded with buyers and the people comfortably and well dressed. There are no striking evidences of want because in peace time Germany was about the only European nation which has solved the problem of poverty.

War's Effects in France

By HENRY WOOD

(U. S. Staff Correspondent.)

Paris, July 3. (By Mail)—Thanks largely to the historical "wollen sock bank" of the thrifty French, France today is financially and economically supporting the war without any serious strain on her national life while new elements the war has injected into industrial and economic life assure France industrial expansion without precedent when peace comes.

At the close of the war in 1870, when Germany imposed an indemnity of one billion dollars, it was the same "wollen sock bank" that saved France. To date, the war has cost France some $8,000,000,000, 73% for military expense.

To meet this gigantic financial burden, the people have loaned the government nearly $3,000,000,000. They have also paid nearly $150,000,000 in war taxes, making a total of $4,500,000, over half the cost of the war to date.

The French government has left with its people all the ready capital necessary for the full redemption of her industrial, commercial and agricultural activities the moment war ends.

By not imposing on her people the financial burdens of the war faster than their earning capacity will bear, France is able financially to continue the war now costing her over $18,000,000 day, for an indefinite period, crippling either her financial, economic or industrial life.

The influx of female labor into all branches of French industrial life since the war began, the suppression of absinthe and the restriction generally of alcoholic consumption, and above all the great lesson of industrial efficiency and maximum production which the war has taught France, hold out for her roseate prospects of the future that promise to compensate the loss in everything but human life the war has entailed on her.

Of the three great elements mentioned above that in two years have revolutionized French industrial life, the greatest perhaps is industrial efficiency and maximum production which the war has taught France, hold out for her roseate prospects of the future that promise to compensate the loss in everything but human life the war has entailed on her.

Of the three great elements mentioned above that in two short years have revolutionized French industrial life, the greatest perhaps is industrial efficiency and maximum production. Previous to the war, industrial efficiency was almost unknown outside the United States and Germany. But today France is industrially efficient. It was the necessity of saving the nation by incredible increases in the production of munitions and military supplies that taught France the lesson.

France's output of powder today is 44 times greater than before the war, her output of rifles 237 times greater, machine guns 98 times greater, cannon 25 times greater, 75-shells 54 times greater, heavy artillery 23 times greater.

This increase in productiveness, due in part to an increased number of factories, is due principally to perfected efficiency.

Munitions, however, tell only half the story. All supplies necessary for equipment and maintaining millions of men in the field tell the other half.

The chemical industry in France which before the war was monopolized by Germany, has tripled in southern France in the vicinity of

Limoges and Dijon, doubled while in the vicinity of Lyons it has taken the form of new lines, entirely unknown in France before the war.

When peace comes, this lesson of efficiency will be applied to every industry in France with an increase in the national productiveness and wealth calculated to startle the world.

Other lessons of efficiency and maximum productiveness have been taught to the French by the Germans at heavy cost. The French iron fields of the Basin of Briey, held by the Germans since the beginning of hostilities, produced for the French in 1913, 15,000,000 tons of iron and steel. The Germans, since they got possession of them, have made them produce 21,000,000. When France gets them back, she proposes to make them produce as much for her as they did for the Germans.

Efficiency in agriculture also has come to France through the hard necessity of Prussian occupation. Since the beginning of hostilities the Germans have occupied 2,000,000 out of 53,000,000 acres, 2,000,000 acres that are the most productive in France. Before the war they produced $1,000,000,000 annually or one-tenth of the national production and wealth.

Unfortunately with their passing into the hands of the enemy, France did not experience a corresponding increase in her population. She has within her borders today, 1,000,000 war refugees—Belgians, Serbians, French, Alsaticans—so that 2,000,000 acres less of territory, she is still obliged to maintain her normal population of about 40,000,000. Enforced agricultural efficiency is enabling her to do it. Her wheat acreage for 1916 is 5,034,510 acres as against 6,571,550 for 1914 when she had 2,000,000 more acres of territory; her 1916 rye acreage is 920,975 as against 1,201,630 of 1914.

With the close of the war this agricultural efficiency and intensity will increase.

France has been unable to complete statistics on the miracles being wrought in her national productiveness by the suppression of absinthe and the restriction of alcoholic consumption. Minister of Finance Ribot, however, states that the results are amazingly apparent and insure even greater restriction with the return of peace.

Before the war female labor was almost unknown in France. Estimates just completed state that with the war women will represent from 75 to 80 per cent of the labor in France. In the munition work alone 150,000 women are now being employed.

Industries newly invaded by women here include food, chemicals, paper, printing, textiles, clothing, leather, wood metal, pottery, transportation and business generally.

War's Effects in Italy

By JOHN H. HEARLEY

Rome, July 3 (By Mail)—Italy, eighteen months ago was commercially and industrially bound hand and foot to Germany. War unloosed the bonds. With the help of English finances, Italy today is working out her own commercial salvation.

When war began in 1914, millions of dollars in German money suddenly were withdrawn from Italian enterprises and the tourist trade, Italy's chief source of wealth, stopped. A national moratorium became necessary. The bank of Italy and other patriotic institutions saved the country from bankruptcy.

Readjustment was in progress when war between Italy and Austria was declared. A general war tax levy was prepared. Even the household piano did not escape. On all checks and receipts, a recent levy of two cents up has been placed.

With munition factories, Italy became dotted. They were a preparation for war and its aftermath, for they are so put up they may be converted into factories of peace. An arms factory near Naples will become a dye works. Other plants will become machine shops. New Italy dreams of real industrial greatness within ten years.

The sudden elimination of German imports threw a financial burden on the Italian people. Many things increased in price, but the advances served to bring out the inventive genius of the Latin race. Drugs, clothes and other products looked on as exclusively German, began to be made at home.

Nothing better illustrates Germany's industrial invasion of Italy than its manufacture of typically Italian goods. For centuries the Romans and Florentines have been artists in hand, made mosaic floors and ceilings and dress ornaments. The Germans invented machines for such manufacture at home. German-made mosaics for years have been sold in Italy far much cheaper than the Italian product could be.

The government is encouraging Italian industry. Associations to make Italian own Italy, are everywhere. "Italy First" is the new motto. Recently all the Italian traveling men organized into one big association.

War Effects in Russia.

By William Philip Simms.

(U. S. Staff Correspondent.)

Petrograd, July 3.—(By Mail)—Two years of war has done Russia good. She has not shirked in battle, has fought her best, paid the price in blood and bone and notwithstanding, is better off today than she was two years ago.

Russia's first big win was by abolishing vodka. Russia is without drunkards. Her second was her economic and industrial awakening. She is learning to walk alone. This double social miracle wrought by the war ought to prove a compensation to Russia for all she has lost or stands to lose.

Russia has nearly 200 million people of whom about 160 million, or 80 per cent are peasants. These are better off than ever in their lives. They get good cash prices for what they sell. The high cost of living does not affect them much as they live off their farms. Labor is scarce but what there is, is sober and accomplishes more than used to be accomplished when it was plentiful.

The peasants today have money. Prior to the war, 800 million rubles (400 million dollars) a year left the villages and country to pay for drink. All this money now remains in the country.

Some 500 million rubles a year are now paid by the government as pensions of war allowances to the families of soldiers. Therefore, at least a billion 300 million rubles a year are now in the villages and country, which, before the war, were not here.

Shidlovsky, president of the controlling bloc in the Duma, himself, a land owner, told me: "I am now employing a number of men on my plantation whom I had been compelled to fire before the war on account of drink."

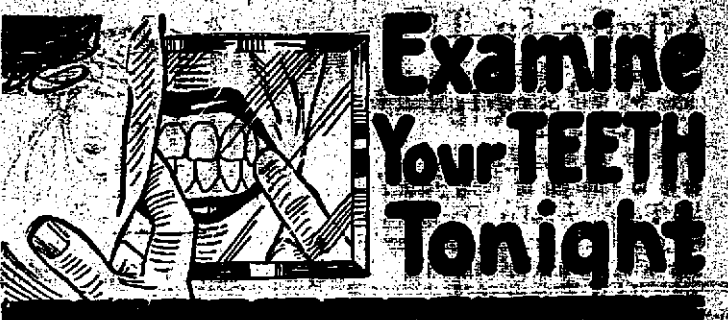

"In the villages, a veritable miracle has taken place. Characters I used to recognize as drunkards, wife-beaters, and ne'er-do-wells generally, have been completely transformed by the lack of vodka. They wear good clothes and are clean. On Sundays you see them at church with their wives neatly dressed without the black eyes which used to be characteristic of them.

"Carpenters, cobblers, jobbers and workmen generally are doing better work and more work now than they can't drink. Drink abolition has worked a social and economical revolution in this country."

Everything is expensive in Russia at present largely owing to lack of transportation facilities in the interior and lack of a good seaport. But high prices really affect a comparative few—the college professors, lawyers, members of the professions, clerks, etc.—whose incomes have not been increased since the war. The working classes, as a rule, are less hit because work is plentiful and wages two or three times as high as they were two years ago. Various citizen organizations have done good work along this line, keeping things going.

At the start of the war, Russia's crops were threatened. Russia was utterly dependent on her crops and if they failed her, she would really be up against it. The Union of local or county councils all over the Empire got busy, joined hands with the military and the job was done. Squads of laborers were told off to gather in the produce. No corner of the country was too remote to pass unnoticed. The crops were saved to the last grain, in no time at all.

This was the work of the All-Russian Zemstvo Union, a national organization born of the war. This great group of plain people ever since has been working to support the army and the nation, taking care of interior labor problems as they concerned the rural districts, helping distribute and look after the refugees and aiding in supplying the army at the front.

 You will find, in all probability, an accumulation of tartar on the enamel and bits of food deposit hiding between the crevices. YOUR DENTIFRICE does not FULLY CLEAN. Loss of teeth is caused usually by one of two conditions—Pyorrhea or decay, both of which develop, as a rule, only in the mouth where germ-laden tartar is present.

SENRECO, the recently discovered formula of a dental specialist, is two-fold in its action. First, it REALLY CLEANS, embodying specially prepared, soluble granules unusually effective in cleaning away food deposits. Second, it is particularly destructive to the germ of Pyorrhea. Yet it is perfectly safe, containing neither injurious chemicals nor hard grit.

HUGHES TO GET WORD TONIGHT

Will be Formally Told That he is the Republican Nominee for President—Only 2 Speeches

FIRST BY SENATOR HARDING

Hughes Speech Will be His Keynote and Will Outline Policies of Interest to Public

BY PERRY ARNOLD
(U. P. Staff Correspondent.)

New York, July 31.—Former Justice Charles Evans Hughes has been working for six weeks as Republican nominee, but tonight he will go through the function of being formally told that the representatives of the g. o. p., in convention assembled at Chicago last June, voted him their standard bearer.

A survival of the days when there were no telegraphs and news moved slowly by courier and coach, the "notification ceremony" tonight was to be transformed into a "love feast" by the Republicans.

Carnegie Hall, seating nearly 4,000 people, will be packed with old line republicans, new line republicans, former democrats, progressives and just plain people. Before this audience and through the press associations and newspapers—Governor Hughes will make his preliminary appeal for Republican votes.

As arranged for today, there were to be just two speeches—a very brief one from Senator Warren G. Harding, who was chairman of the Chicago convention, and who was appointed chairman of the notification committee. Harding will gently break the news to Hughes that he was named Republican presidential nominee. Hughes will respond in a speech of probably five or ten thousand words—his "keynote" for the campaign.

The former Governor has been working on this speech ever since he got the unofficial word from Chicago that he was nominated. In it he will give his views on practically every policy of interest to the public. He will make a powerful appeal for unity of effort, announce a welcome to progressives of all types, and probably indicate what issue he considers of paramount importance in the coming campaign.

Immediately after the formal notification ceremonies in Carnegie Hall, members of the Republican national committee, the campaign committee, the senatorial and congressional campaign committees, and scores of specially invited Republican and Progressive leaders, will be Hughes' guests at a reception at the Hotel Astor.

There was a report circulated here today that Colonel Roosevelt and former president Taft might publicly bury the axe of their political and personal quarrel by both being present.

BEGIN REHEARSALS

Daily rehearsals begin this evening for the production of a "Midsummer Night's Dream" to be staged at the Chautauqua on Tuesday evening. The cast including about 30 young people will practice every evening beginning at 7 o'clock at the coliseum and some afternoon work will be done. Prof. Beriault of Indianapolis will spend the week here directing the rehearsals.
